CLAIMS SEWER RATES ARE NOT HIGHER HERE

"Sewer rates in Gettysburg are not high compared with other towns of similar size which have recently built or are building sewage disposal units," John H. Long, local manager of Municipal Management company, which operates both the water works and sewer system, declared at a meeting of the Retail Merchants association Tuesday evening at the court house.

The meeting had been announced as open to the public, but few, other than merchants, attended. Charles B. Bender, president presided. There were 25 present.

Following Mr. Long's explanation of the new sewage rates and operation of the new plant members of the association discussed Christmas plans. The merchants association will place the Christmas decorations this year and it is planned to have the Christmas lighting turned on December 1 or earlier if possible. The Christmas parade will be held December 10.

Cash Prizes Planned

Sixty-five dollars will be awarded in parade prizes. $50 has been set aside for floats, with first prize of $25, second $15, and third, $10. Individual prizes, ranging from $1 to $5 and totaling $15, will be awarded for the best costumes.

Former Governor James H. Duff's "clear stream" program was credited by Mr. Long as one of the principal reasons why a new sewage treatment plant is being erected. "Any one in the vicinity of York or Hanover street knows by the odor, that Rock creek is polluted," he said. "The creek flows eventually into the Potomac river, above the point where Washington D. C. obtains its drinking water."

"The state of Pennsylvania several times ordered Gettysburg to do something about its sewage disposal. It finally sent an ultimatum. The borough council decided that it would turn the construction and operation of a new plant over to the Municipal Authority, if the latter would accept this responsibility. The latter agreed."

New Sewer Lines

Sewer rates are based on the engineer's estimate of the cost of the new plant, Mr. Long said. The difference between the bond issue of $475,000 and the actual cost of the plant will be used to construct two newly needed sewer lines to relieve present congestion, he said.

Mr. Long said that the first sewer rental bills went out to users at a time when use of water was at its peak. The sewer rentals are based on the amount of water used, he said. In the summer months, air conditioning units and greater use of water in general made the sewer bills higher than in the winter months, he said.

"The big question seems to be: What are the sewer rentals for?"

GOTHAM PASTOR ADDRESSES BANK DINNER TUESDAY

We need imagination in our social and international life and we get this from religion. Cold facts make cold wars," Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of Christ Church Methodist, New York city, and minister of the national radio pulpit, told 234 shareholders of the First National bank of Gettysburg and members of their families at the 25th annual shareholders dinner Tuesday night at the Hotel Gettysburg.

Doctor Sockman commented on the difference in financial stability he learned on a recent visit to Europe and the report on the condition of the First National presented by Edmund W. Thomas, president of the First National.

"The contrast is striking," the New York minister said. "While Paris is gay, and there are no longer the riots and the parades and the calling for bread that I saw in previous years, the French have a great need for stability, and if the stabilizing force of America were not there I don't know what France would do."

There has been little rebuilding and there seemed to be a feeling that it is not worthwhile to rebuild. There are tensions between those who want a reunited Germany and those who fear Russia. There is also an almost pathetic hope that we Americans will help them."

"Having visited the dictatorships of Stalin, Franco and Peron, I determined also to see Tito's dictatorship this year. The extreme poverty of the people gave the greatest impression. In a country of ten million people with an area about the size of New York and Pennsylvania there are only 300 private automobiles. Imagine driving 275 miles and seeing one private car and three trucks the entire length of the road."

"And the Yugoslavs look to us for help—for they know we are the only ones who can help them. England looks pretty sturdy and strong in comparison to the rest of Europe. The thing that worries me most is that educated persons do not talk about world affairs. They know England is playing second fiddle. They say 'it is your turn.' They are leaving it to America."

English Not Worried

"But England is trying to restore its sense of greatness. And the English are not as worried as we are about the Russians. They say that Russia is not as strong as we think she is and that England is stronger than we think it is."

"I am certain that England and America stand together no combination can defeat them. I think Russia has been carrying on a gigantic and dangerous bluff. One does not realize the terrible poverty of Russia until he has been there. I think the iron curtain was put up out of poverty and pride. They are ashamed to be seen."

"But I came back to America to find that honor has become so cheap it is sold low by men in high places. I find gambling, use of narcotics terribly widespread."

DAIRYMEN TO MEET MONDAY ON TB TESTING

Some 40 Adams county dairymen will meet Monday evening at the Production and Marketing administration office on York street to discuss with Dr. J. B. Moyer, in charge of the area TB test being carried out at the present time, whether it is necessary to test cattle in herds that are on the individual testing plan.

The first prize window has as its theme "Hands Around the World," the title of one of the Girl Scout handbooks. It shows a Girl Scout standing in front of flags of the United Nations holding chains of brightly colored paper extending to cut out outlines of various countries pasted to the window.

Basis For Judging

The windows were judged for originality, appropriateness, neatness, effort and general appearance. Each judge gave points for the five tests for each window.

Two troops tied for second place, the Fairfield troop and Gettysburg Brownie Troop 25 of St. Francis Xavier church. The Fairfield Scouts placed their display in two bay windows in the Girl Scout house there. One window shows arts and crafts including baskets and wooden bowls and the other a camping scene. The Brownie Troop display in the Varsity Barber shop window here has as its theme "Brownies' Helping Hands" and consists of outlines of the members' hands on white paper against a black background and with the names of the members written on the outlines. Pumpkins and black cats provide a Halloween motif. The name of the troop is spelled out with buckeyes.

The Littlestown troop's window, placed in Boyd's store on East King street, to Albert P. and Mary Cleo Bell, same place, a tract of land in that township.

Weather Observer's Computation Reveals Adams County Had Rain Shortage Of 190,369,920 Tons

It's no wonder it's dry in Adams county—we're short 190,369,920 tons of rain so far this year.

(Editor's Note: This figure is the result of extensive tabulation by Hugh C. McIlhenny, official government weather observer for Gettysburg.)

October was the fourth consecutive month and the eighth so far this year that was short on rainfall. Only 1.23 inches of water fell this month. Normal October rainfall is 3.33 inches.

Guest speaker for the evening was Robert Harry, regional director for the Eastern area of the American Red Cross. Reviewing briefly the field of service of the Red Cross Mr. Harry told his audience: "The most significant program of the Red Cross is the blood donor program for national defense—it's the old story of the Good Samaritan with a modern twist."

He told of the launching of the Red Cross civilian blood bank program in 1948 which set up machinery for gathering acutely needed blood when fighting began in Korea in

NAME JUDGES FOR HALLOWEEN PARADE TONIGHT

Members of the Exchange club who will serve as judges for the Halloween parade this evening are Cletus Mayer, chairman of the committee; Jay Bringman, Richard Shaeffer, Robert P. Snyder, Glenn Giese, C. W. Crouse, Eugene Weishaar, and George Haen.

Names of the ten judges were announced at the weekly dinner meeting of the club Tuesday night at Bankert's restaurant by David E. Garfinkle, Jr., president. Mr. Mayer requested that the judges meet at the Meade school at 7 o'clock.

Besides being dry, October was unusually warm. Its average daily temperature of 57.15 degrees was 3.55 degrees above normal. There was a wide range of temperatures—from a high of 92 degrees the afternoon of October 5 to a one-above freezing reading the morning of October 14.

The high on October 4 was the only above-90 reading for the month. The average daily high was 67.9 degrees and the average daily low was 46.4 degrees.

WASHINGTON TO GREET PRINCESS THIS AFTERNOON

Washington, Oct. 31 (P) — Official Washington put on its best bib and tucker today to greet Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

And in spite of possible showers, thousands of men and women in the street planned to join in the capital's televised welcome for the British royal couple on their first visit to the United States.

President and Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, headed the list of government officials, foreign diplomats and other dignitaries meeting Elizabeth and her blond, handsome husband on their arrival by plane from Montreal at 4 p.m. (EST).

Television and radio networks set up coast-to-coast coverage of the event.

Formal Dinner Tonight

A 21-gun salute was to touch off a rapid-fire succession of receptions, dinners and other ceremonies for the royal visitors. The first: A reception by some 900 news correspondents as soon as the couple had a chance to freshen up and sample American-style tea.

Elizabeth and Philip are guests of the President at Blair House during their 45-hour visit.

Tonight at 8 p.m. (EST) there's a presidential dinner—very formal, limited to about 20 guests because of cramped dining space in the Truman family's temporary residence. The gold table service and the blue-bordered china bought by Franklin D. Roosevelt will be used.

Reception Follows

Afterwards there's a reception for some 100 persons—supreme court justices, cabinet members, other high officials and their wives.

Then Elizabeth and her consort will be free to retire to their adjacent two-rooms-and-bath suites (one pale green, the other peach) and rest for a second round of official entertaining tomorrow.

Yesterday Montreal put on the greatest show in its history for the royal couple. An estimated 1,500,000 persons caught a glimpse of the smiling pair on a 40-mile procession. The crowd was so dense the cavalcade was forced to a complete halt several times to have the way cleared.

This is the first visit of British royalty to Washington since the prince's parents, King George and Queen Elizabeth, came here in the tense summer of 1939.

Contributions to the Community Chest today totalled $13,657.71.

At the same time Chairman Donald M. Swope said that practically all residential solicitors have completed their portion of the campaign. Yet to be completed is solicitation of many business places, clubs, doctors and others who are canvassed by other than the residential solicitors.

DICKINSON 11 MEETS BULLETS HERE SATURDAY

Another of Pennsylvania's most colorful football rivalries will be resumed here Saturday afternoon when the Gettysburg college Bullets meet Dickinson's Red Devils in the annual Home-coming day attraction.

The largest crowd of the home season is anticipated for the 40th gridiron meeting between the schools. Gettysburg holds a wide edge in the 39 previous games with 27 wins, 11 losses and one deadlock.

Dickinson's last triumph was a 7-0 decision in 1937. However, there were no games played from 1942 until last year when the Bullets eked out a 7-6 decision at Carlisle in a heavy rainstorm.

Back in 1938 George H. Hummel, Philadelphia, a former college trustee, and S. Walter Stauffer, Dickinson alumnus, made a gift of an Oaken Bucket to the schools symbolizing the friendship between the schools. The football victor each year retains possession of the trophy and Gettysburg has swept all six games since it was offered.

Everything points to a bitter struggle Saturday. Dickinson has dropped decisions to Trinity, Western Maryland and Franklin and Marshall while winning from Drexel and Ursinus.

The Bullets hold triumphs over Drexel, Muhlenberg and Johns Hopkins while bowing to Bucknell, Western Maryland and Lehigh.

The Red Devils usually come up with their best performance of the year against Gettysburg and this year is expected to be no exception.

The games, which will start at 9 a.m., will be played on Lebanon Valley's new athletic field, and on the old football practice field. Each team will play three 20-minute periods. At 6 p.m. there will be a banquet for all participants at the Annville American Legion post, at which time the Central Pennsylvania all-star team selections will be announced.

A selection board of experienced field hockey leaders from the Central Pennsylvania area, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Rochester will pick two All-Star teams. These two teams will later compete in the Mid-East tournament, in Rochester, November 17. From this tournament two All-Star teams will be chosen to represent the Mid-East District in the National tournament at Boston, November 22, 23, and 24, at which time an All-American team will be selected.

Six Players Quit Waynesboro Team Because Of Curfew

Waynesboro high school's football hopes for the remainder of the season will be placed largely with underclassmen.

This was indicated Tuesday with the announcement that six varsity players had left the squad.

The announcement came from Head Coach Steve Suhey.

Suhey reported that the six had taken exceptions to his demands for a more rigid training schedule, especially to his ruling that football players be "off the street at 8 p.m."

The six, according to Suhey, approached him on the practice field Monday night and asked that he reconsider the 8 p.m. curfew and make it later. He refused and they left the field.

Suhey explained that in setting up the 8 p.m. curfew he made allowances for the nights the boys had other activities such as Scout meetings, Hi-Y and other affairs.

Then the time would be extended, providing he was informed beforehand.

He said he clamped down and demanded stricter adherence to the training program after finding that the squad could not stand up to a full game.

Suhey said the curfew did not mean that the boys should go to bed at that hour but be at home where they could do their school work and get to bed early.

The curfew applies to four nights a week, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Thursday the night before a game Suhey and the coaches meet with the squad and take them to the movies. Friday night is game night and Saturday night the early curfew doesn't apply.

"I want boys who want to learn to play football and who are willing to make sacrifices," Suhey said Tuesday, "and I had to draw the line at some place."

"With their schoolwork and foot-ball these boys shouldn't have too much time for other activities," Suhey added.

Parents of several boys expressed disappointment at the situation.

Unbeaten Bubblers And Cadets Clash

One of the top scholastic football attractions of the season is scheduled for Thursday evening when two undefeated teams, Scotland and Boiling Springs, clash on the Bubblers' field at 8 o'clock.

Coach "Bud" Ecker's Bubblers have won eight straight this season and 14 of their last 15 games, their last loss being at the hands of Scotland in 1950. Scotland has won seven in a row this season to run its winning streak to 15 straight covering a span of two seasons.

The game will bring together two outstanding backs, Jim Gilliland of the Cadets and Emerson Dromgold of Boiling Springs. The contest will also serve as the annual homecoming game at Boiling Springs and the largest crowd in history is anticipated.

The Phibs wound up the season a toronto fifth. And it was the igno-mance of that skidding which started talk of Sawyer's being through as a skipper.

"As a whole, our club was spoiled," Sawyer says frankly. Too much success too quickly.

He promises it will be different next year.

Apart from pitcher Robin Roberts and the sensational Richie Ashburn afield and at bat, Sawyer says anyone on the team is "available for a profitable date."

Promise Shakeup

Long ball hitters are needed. The mound staff must be strengthened

(Simmons may be out of service come next summer). That second base job has to be filled.

"There will be a general shakeup," Sawyer said. "We must, in fact, strengthen every position if we hope to get back in the running. The team will have to get down to earth—or go to Baltimore." The Baltimore Orioles, of the International league, is a Phillips farm club.

LOOK TO THIS DAY ALONE

There is no event so spiritually inspiring as that of the new day, bursting with light and offered opportunity. This day of ours is enriched by the experiences of all the days gone before. Look to this day alone, with confidence, hope, and faith and the morrow will take care of itself.

Why should the burdens, worries, and mental disturbances of our yesterday be carried into our today as extra equipment? Each one of our new days should blossom anew in all its beauty and promise. How little we know about our capacity for growth. Therefore all hindrances should be dropped, shoved aside, or ignored.

We awake in the morning and take a step into a new opportunity, and if we have improved by that advancement, we can count that day lost. A single day's thought or action has often mapped the plan of one's life. The only day that is immediately important is the one you hold in your grasp. Look then to this day!

I like that line in The Lord's Prayer where it says, "Give us this day our daily bread." No need to regret anything in past days. No need to speculate upon the morrow. This day is the key that will unlock tomorrow if you fit it well to this day alone.

So live that the plan and purpose of your life exemplifies the beacon that shines out into the night! We acquire nothing so valuable and far-reaching as the influence we are able to exert upon others for their good. And others pass their influence upon us. It is a part of the day's work.

No better advice than that of the late Dr. Osler, which he gave to an audience of Yale students some thirty years and more ago, when he said, "Waste of energy, mental distress, nervous worries dog the steps of a man who is anxious about the future. Shut close, then, the great fore and aft bulkheads, and prepare to cultivate the habit of a life of Day-Tight compartments."

Forever feed those forces that contribute to a triumphant life. Keep feeding the highest resolves of your mind. Said William James, "It is surprising how soon a desire will die of manitom if it be never fed." Look then to this day alone and nourish it well!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "All Life a Miracle."

G.O.P. Cohorts Hold Big Feed:
Pre-election activity of the Adams County Republican club was concluded Saturday evening at a monster pig roast in the Order of Independent American Lodge rooms, attended by nearly 800 men and women.

The committee in charge of the pig roast included Samuel Reed, president of the club; Harry Koch, Cecil Stover, E. C. Moser, Charles K. Hartzell, M. W. Klinefelter, R. E. Zinn and Maurice Munshower.

Grotesque Costume Adorn Mummers: King Momus was enthroned and reigned supreme in Gettysburg for several hours Friday evening.

It was an evening long to be remembered by the boys and girls who turned out in extraordinarily large numbers to participate in the annual Halloween parade.

Mingling with the bare of two bands, the Paradise Protecorate and the Citizens', were the sounds of hundreds of artificial noise-makers, horns, rattlers, whistles and what-nots. From the side-lines spectators threw handfuls of confetti on the marchers.

The frolic was conducted under the auspices of Gettysburg aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles. After the parade the boys and leader of the Paradise Protecorate band were treated to an oyster supper by the Eagles at their home.

Allen B. Plank was chief marshal of the parade with John Storn and William Adair as aides.

State Police Barracks Here Once More: The local substation of state troopers was closed August 18 and Tuesday afternoon, as unexpectedly as the police were withdrawn, the barracks were opened in the Topper building, Baltimore street, with the personnel increased from two to three.

Eastern Star Holds Banquet: Celebrating the second anniversary of the founding of the Gettysburg chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, members of the organization held a banquet at the Hotel Gettysburg Wednesday evening. Places were set for sixty-nine guests.

Dr. Frank H. Kramer was toastmaster and addresses were given by Mrs. Blanche Burkholder, W. Preston Hull, L. C. Keefauver, Mrs. Preston Hull and Mrs. C. N. Gitt.

The committee in charge of the function comprised Mrs. W. Preston Hull, Mrs. William A. Hennig, Miss Elizabeth Rummel and Mrs. L. C. Keefauver.

Attend Mardi Gras: The following spent Thursday evening attending the Mardi Gras of the White Shrine in Harrisburg: Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Daley and children, Mrs. Preston Hull, Mrs. Harrison Harbach, Mr. and Mrs. William Hennig, Miss Elizabeth Rummel, Miss Bess Raffensperger, Miss Carrie Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Deatrick.

Poverty Party By League Circle: The annual Poverty Party of the Gettysburg Woman's League in the ballroom of the Eagle hotel was a "howling success." Mrs. Gries, disguised as a knave of the first order, was elected as ruler over all, by such eminent judges as Dr. Charles Huber, Dr. A. R. Wentz, Dr. George D. Stanley, Lloyd C. Keefauver and Wayne Keet.

Between $60 and $70 was cleared by the Woman's League Circle No. 1, which sponsored the function, according to Mrs. Rudolph Rosenstengel, who with Mrs. C. B. Stover comprised the committee.

Besides Mrs. Gries, who received the prize as the "poorest dressed" person, other prize winners were Dr. John B. Zinn for the "best dressed poor man," and Mrs. Bertram Saltzer, who identified the greatest number of those masked.

County Boys Win Judging Contest: Competing against seven other teams, a trio of boys from the Arendtsville Vocational school won first place in a milk judging contest at the Philadelphia Sesquicentennial Thursday. On the team were John Raffensperger and Roy Hoffmann, Arendtsville, and Elmer Schriver, Biglerville.

Just Folks

HOST TIME
I believe in ghosts and goblins for I met them down the years. I resent some wise friend saying that just nonsense this appears. I know what goblins look like. I've had spectres shake my hand.

And I've fed them ginger cookies, one alone, or in a band.

You needn't try to tell me ghosts and goblins don't exist.

If you're one's who never seen them then a lot of fun you've missed.

I have had them ring my door bell and I've heard them laugh with glee.

As they realized their visit, as they'd planned, had frightened me.

I can tell you all about them. They are masked and robed in white.

And they're always very hungry and they always come at night.

With a "Help the poor" they greet me when the door is open flung.

They seem old as ghosts and goblins, but I'm sure they're very young.

No such things as ghosts and goblins! If you cannot trust your eyes.

There are time when I am certain it is sad to be so wise,

And it must be very lonely when it comes to Halloween.

If a little ghost or goblin at your door is never seen.

NEAR MILLIONTH DEATH ON ROADS

Chicago, Oct. 31 (AP) — Traffic deaths on the nation's highways are mounting as expected, toward the one million mark, the National Safety council said today.

The council announced the total number of deaths for the first nine months of this year—26,630—which pushed the grand total since the advent of the automobile "well past 990,000."

That leaves less than 10,000 to go before the millionth traffic death is recorded. The council said its earlier estimate that the millionth fatality would occur during the third week of December was unchanged by the latest figures.

September alone accounted for 3,650 persons killed in traffic accidents. A factor in this total—the highest for any month since September, 1941—was the highest Labor Day traffic death toll on record.

The nine-month total of 26,630 was eight per cent higher than for the same period in 1950.

That leaves less than 10,000 to go before the millionth traffic death is recorded. The council said its earlier

STATE OFFICIAL
TALKS TO CLUB

L. V. Good, deputy secretary to the property and supplies department of Pennsylvania, was the guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Littlestown Rotary Club Tuesday evening at Schott's hotel, when a program in keeping with Pennsylvania Week was presented. Mr. Good informed the Rotarians as to the size, advantages, resources and beauty of the Keystone state. The speaker stated that "Pennsylvania has 46,000 miles of highways, more than 14 other sea-coast states put together." In 1944 it took 9,000 pieces of equipment to keep these roads open," he said. "The new U. S. steel plant being constructed at Morristown will produce approximately two million tons of pig iron per year." The coal mined in Pennsylvania is many times more than the amount of earth excavated from the Panama Canal."

The program opened with a group singing led by L. Robert Snyder. The business session was in charge of the president, Charles E. Ritter. One visitor was in attendance, Harry R. Moller, of the Ephrata club. The International Service committee consisting of Frank E. Basehoar, chairman, Edward T. Richardson, Sr., Paul E. King, Charles W. CONTRADICTIONS MAKE VATICAN'S JOB CONFUSING

By FRANK O'REILLY

(For James Marlow)

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP) — If Gen. Mark Clark becomes the ambassador of the United States to the Vatican he will be ambassador to one of the youngest states in the world.

The State of the Vatican City, as it is officially known, dates only from 1929. But its monarch is the Pope of Rome—at present Pope Pius XII—and the papacy is one of the oldest sovereignties in the world. The present city state was established—as a temporal kingdom of the Pope—by agreement in 1929 with Benito Mussolini, then dictator of Italy.

Also, General Clark, if he becomes ambassador to the Roman Catholic Church state, will be a diplomat in the only country in the world that hasn't enough room even to house its official guests.

Yet he will be a representative to a world power.

Those are a few of the contradictions that make the question of diplomacy with the Vatican confusing, apart from purely religious considerations.

Needs Senate Approval

President Truman has asked the Senate to approve sending Clark to the Vatican as ambassador. The Senate has to give its consent to presidential nominations for ambassadors. Clark would be the first full U.S. ambassador to the papal court.

The general, if he becomes ambassador, will have no surprises in store for him. As the World War Two conqueror of Rome, he is familiar with the Vatican set-up, and is a personal friend of Pope Pius XII, although Clark is an Episcopalian.

The Vatican City state consists of but 108.7 acres. Its population is only a little over 1,000. But because the Pope is the supreme religious authority to the world's Roman Catholics he has a powerful voice around the world—inside and outside the iron curtain—in public opinion.

So an ambassador to the Vatican is envoy to one of the world's greatest vast basilica started. It was designed, built and decorated by the greatest artists of the Italian renaissance.

Around the church there grew up a closely woven scheme of other magnificent buildings—the papal palaces. Among the buildings are famous gardens, where the Popes exercise.

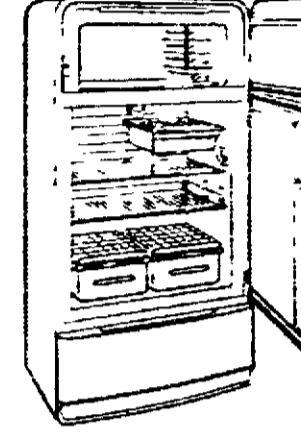

That is Vatican City, Rome, the capital of Italy, all around it. Almost everything in the city is hundreds of years old and of great beauty. That is why pilgrims to the Vatican from 36 nations at present can find little in the country to which they are accredited. It is too crowded with diplomats. The diplomats have their embassies in Rome. Their countries maintain separate embassies in Rome to the Italian government. And Italy—right in Rome—has its embassy to the Vatican.

“YES
SON, IT'S BEEN MY CHOICE FOR 40 YEARS!
THEY TELL ME MOUNTAIN WATER MAKES THE DIFFERENCE”

Something more than the best malt, hops, yeast and old time skill goes into Cumberland's OLD EXPORT BEER. Something that Cumberland's million-dollar brewery couldn't do—something else besides the slow, careful brewing and unhurried aging. WHAT IS IT? the answer is—mountain water.

Did you know that all beer is 87% water? Naturally that means that what kind of water is used makes a big difference. And mountain water is clear, pure! It's tangy tops! That's what's made OLD EXPORT a favorite with beer drinkers for nearly half a century. If you like beer at its best—you'll agree. Mountain water makes the difference!

VOTE NEXT WEEK TO BE TIPOFF ON '52 TREND

Harrietta, Oct. 31 (AP) — Both Republicans and Democrats agreed today that the results of the Nov. 6 municipal elections will provide a tipoff on 1952 voting trends.

But a Democratic leader offered with a view expressed by Sen. James H. Duff, R-Pa., that the GOP must elect candidates at courthouse levels this year if it hopes to elect a president next year.

Miss Genevieve Blair, secretary of the Democratic State committee, said all of Pennsylvania's local elections are being fought on purely local issues.

"Ground Roots" Effect

"Local issues — and local issues alone — will decide the elections next month," Miss Blair told a newsman. "I think however, a voting trend will be shown that may reflect itself in 1952."

State Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Republican state chairman, declined to comment on the general election picture.

Duff told a Pennsylvania audience last night that Republicans must concentrate at the "ground roots" in winning municipal elections next month to provide enough impact for a victory in 1952.

Generally, the Pennsylvania election scene has been extraordinarily quiet.

Once in Philadelphia is there a semblance of the ground-cover drag-out fight that swept the Keystone state in 1948. There the Republican organization is fighting the battle of its life against strong Democratic candidates, backed by some independent Republicans.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, 66, nationally known Baptist minister, is the Republican candidate for mayor. He is opposed by Joseph Sill Clark, Jr., 50-year-old Democratic city controller.

Richard D. Worth, defeated Democratic candidate for governor last year, is running for district attorney against Michael J. Foley, backed by the GOP organization.

Mrs Paul V. Long, Mechanicsburg, the former Angela Schott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Schott, South Queen street, a member of the Little Theater group, appeared in the production. "Candlelight," presented on Friday and Saturday nights in the high school auditorium in Mechanicsburg. The play was presented under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers Association. She was cast in the feminine lead role of Marie, a vacuous, flirtatious lady's maid with an adventuresome spirit that got her involved in a racy affair.

NEW RULING IN "CO" DRAFT CASE

Hanover, W. Va., Oct. 31 (AP) — A federal judge has ruled it's what you believe, not what church you belong to, that determines if you are a conscientious objector to military service.

The decision by Judge Harry E. Watkins of Fairmont, W. Va., might have repercussions in operation of the draft law. The established principle has been that you must belong to a church specifically opposing military service before you can qualify as a conscientious objector. The case before Judge Watkins on Monday involved a Catholic.

The decision by Judge Harry E. Watkins of Fairmont, W. Va., might have repercussions in operation of the draft law. The established principle has been that you must belong to a church specifically opposing military service before you can qualify as a conscientious objector. The case before Judge Watkins on Monday involved a Catholic.

Howard Evergreen, 22-year-old former New Yorker now living at Point Pleasant, W. Va., is charged with violating the selective service law. He refused induction at Charleston, W. Va., August 22.

Evergreen pleaded that war is immoral. He said he is not opposed to bearing arms in a "just war." At the moment, he argued, any just war is "only theoretical."

The defendant said an examiner in New York heard his appeal for reclassification as a conscientious objector. The examiner Evergreen said, explained he himself is a Catholic but does not oppose military service. For that reason, Evergreen, told the court, the examiner ruled his objection could not be based on his faith.

Judge Watkins ruled at this point that the question he must decide is whether an individual's own interpretation of religious teachings makes him a conscientious objector. He said it is not a question of whether being a Catholic implies objection to military service. The judge did not rule immediately on Evergreen's specific case.

VOTE NEXT WEEK TO BE TIPOFF ON '52 TREND

Harrisburg, Oct. 31 (AP) — About Republicans and Democrats agreed today that the results of the Nov. 6 municipal elections will provide a tipoff on 1952 voting trends.

But a Democratic leader differed with a view expressed by Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa) that the GOP must elect candidates at courthouse levels this year if it hopes to elect a president next year.

Miss Genevieve Blatt, secretary of the Democratic State committee, said all of Pennsylvania's local elections are being fought on "purely local issues."

"Ground Roots" Effort

"Local issues — and local issues alone — will decide the elections next month," Miss Blatt told a newsman. "I think, however, voting trend will be shown that may reflect itself in 1952."

State Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Republican state chairman, declined to comment on the general election picture.

Duff told a Pittsburgh audience last night that Republicans must concentrate at the "ground roots" in winning municipal elections next month to provide enough impact for a victory in 1952.

Generally, the Pennsylvania election scene has been extraordinarily quiet.

Only in Philadelphia is there a semblance of the knock-down, drag-out fight that swept the Keystone state in 1950. There the Republican organization is fighting the battle of its life against strong Democratic candidates, backed by some independent Republicans.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, 66, nationally known Baptist minister, is the Republican candidate for mayor. He is opposed by Joseph Sill Clark, Jr., 50-year-old Democratic city controller.

Richard Dilworth, defeated Democratic candidate for governor last year, is running for district attorney against Michael J. Foley, backed by the GOP organization.

Littlestown

Littlestown — The Littlestown Lions club will be host to the Lions of Zone A, District 14C, at the semi-monthly dinner meeting of the local club on Thursday at 7 o'clock in the social room of St. John's Lutheran church, near town. The program will be in charge of the Civic Improvement committee composed of Kenneth D. James, Holman L. Sell and H. Dewey Strevig.

The Ladies' Aid society and the Consistory of St. James Reformed church, along the Harney road, will hold their November meetings on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the parish house.

Members of Girl Scout Troop No. 12, Miss Mary Rita Redding, leader, will enjoy a Halloween party in conjunction with the regular meeting on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in St. Aloysius parish hall.

The weekly meeting of Brownie Girl Scout Troops 28 and 34 will be held on Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Alpha engine house.

NEW RULING IN "CO" DRAFT CASE

Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 31 (AP) — A federal judge has ruled it's what you believe, not what church you belong to, that determines if you are a conscientious objector to military service.

The decision by Judge Harry E. Watkins of Fairmont, W. Va., might have repercussions in operation of the draft law. The established principle has been that you must belong to a church specifically opposing military service before you can qualify as a conscientious objector. The case before Judge Watkins on Monday involved a Catholic.

Howard Everngam, 23-year-old former New York now living at Point Pleasant, W. Va., is charged with violating the selective service law. He refused induction at Charles-ton, W. Va., August 22.

Everngam pleaded that war is immoral. He said he is not opposed to bearing arms in a "just war." At the moment, he argued, any just war is "only theoretical."

The defendant said an examiner in New York heard his appeal for reclassification as a conscientious objector. The examiner, Everngam said, explained he himself is a Catholic but does not oppose military service. For that reason, Everngam, told the court, the examiner ruled his objection could not be based on his faith.

Judge Watkins ruled at this point that the question he must decide is whether an individual's own interpretation of religious teachings makes him a conscientious objector. He said it is not a question of whether being a Catholic implies objection to military service. The judge did not rule immediately on Everngam's specific case.

PA. ASSISTANCE DEPT. STUDIES MEDICAL PLAN

Harrisburg, Oct. 31 (AP) — The state Public Assistance department today investigated the possibility of hiring its own medical staff to look after all persons on relief.

The move is under study as a possible means of cutting down the department's $3,000,000 a year medical care bill.

Under the present medical aid system used by the public assistance agency, a relief recipient may choose his own physician. The physician is allowed a standard charge of $2.50 for home call and $1.50 for an office call.

Two Alternatives

The department also has fixed a minimum charge of 75 cents for prescriptions for ill persons on relief. In all cases, the doctors and drug-gists bill the assistance department directly for their services.

Medical costs at the present time are running around $400,000 a month. They climb upward during winter months and dip somewhat during the summer.

The assistance spokesman said the agency's advisory medical committee has been asked specifically to study and make recommendations on two alternate medical programs. One would be direct employment by the department of its own doctors. The other would be to establish medical clinics in various sections of the state to aid ill persons on relief. In both cases, sick relief recipients would be required to use these medical facilities rather than choose their own physician.

FIND OLD TOMBSTONE

Kearny, N. J., Oct. 31 (AP) — A telephone company laborer laying underground cables unearthed a 218-year-old tombstone on Monday. The tombstone for a five-year-old boy was dug up by Manuel Rigo, an employee of the New Jersey Bell Telephone company. It was buried two feet under ground. An old English inscription on the stone read: "Here lies ye body of John Tom, son of John Tom, aged 5 years Deed March 29, 1733." About 20 years ago a tombstone dated 1732 was discovered in the same area.

than 400,000 persons now receiving aid under the railroad retirement act. The bill increases railroad retirement benefits by 15 percent or about $100,000,000 a year. The boost will take place November 1 for the approximately 400,000 retired rail workers now on the benefit rolls.

Will We Ever Have False Bathing Suits?

Los Angeles, Oct. 31 (AP) — The bathing beauties of 1952 will be out in the open with their decent, if any.

The major California swim suit makers previewed their new lines before the nation's fashion editors and showed, among other things, suits with outside laces.

Cole calls them the "flying wing" bras. A wing on the bodice turns down for the flat-chested girl but worn up, eclipses a too-generous bosom.

Another hit of the show opening yesterday was an all-nylon black velvet swim suit by Catalina, complete with a jeweled choker collar. The collar unites and transforms into a belt for those who prefer their bathing suits strapless.

Catalina's people announced without the cutting of an eye lash that the suit is made for swimming. It seems the tight fitting collar resists water while attracting male stares. The suit has a Parisian look and even a Parisian name. It's called the "Eiffel Tower."

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP) — President Truman has signed the postal rate increase bill which dooms the penny post card as a part of a $117,000,000 annual boost in postal charges. The new two-cent rate on post cards goes into effect next Feb. 1.

In addition, there will be a 10 per cent boost in mailing charges for newspapers and magazines April next year. Two other 10 per cent increases on this type of mail will take effect April 1, 1953, and April 1, 1954, making a 30 per cent hike.

And you can add to all this Dynaflow Drive—that puts magic smoothness into every mile you drive—and practically repays its extra cost by the way it protects the whole driving mechanism, and by the dollars it adds to trade-in value.

Speakers at the meeting will include A. R. Marvel, Easton, Md., president of the Inter-state cooperative; Wilbur F. Barkdull, Waynesboro R. 1, director from district No. 25, and E. C. Dunning, Chambersburg, field man for the area.

Each of the locals will meet for a business session during the dinner meeting to elect officers and delegates and alternates for the annual meeting of Interstate to be held Tuesday, November 27, at the Benjamin Franklin hotel, Philadelphia.

Entertainment for the evening will be furnished by Dudley W. Winter, a magician.

The Eagles softball team stood in first place in the Littlestown Softball league, but was nosed out in the playoffs. Keep Hens Laying—Some good suggestions to keep hens laying are given by Fritz Leuschner, extension poultry specialist of the Pennsylvania State College. Watch body weight. Try to keep up feed consumption and good fleshing by using pellets or wet mashes, or both. Some poultrymen turn on lights when natural light drops below 12 hours a day.

Plant Bulbs—When planting bulbs for spring flowering, be sure to set them in well-drained soil sites, reminds Edwin Price, Penn State extension ornamental horticulturist.

Copies of the 1952 Pennsylvania Farm show premium list are now available and have been sent to all previous exhibitors and a large number who anticipate sending outstanding animals to the great exposition. Each has been notified of the special health requirements adopted by the commission to prevent the spread of animal diseases at the livestock exposition.

Consumers Served—Many services are performed from the time eggs are laid on the farm until they appear on the consumers' tables, reminds Kermit Birth, Penn State extension marketing specialist.

INSULATING BOARD FROM STRAW

In 1947 the United States Department of Agriculture released a small publication entitled "A Study of the Possibility of Making Insulating Board from Straw." Since some of the general facts of this study have here and there reached rural readers, inquiries have come to the editor about the practicability of starting small farmer-cooperative industries in agricultural regions. Most of these questions pertain to obstacles likely to be encountered and profits such an industry might yield.

Since this circular was published, urban building has expanded more rapidly than could have been envisioned four years ago. Demands for materials are, therefore, greater than the authors could at that time foresee. And although the prolongation and intensifying of the Korean War have brought gigantic requirements for military installations along with some curtailments to private construction, demands for insulating board are greater today than they were when this survey was made.

On the other hand, no one can conceivably predict when our vast urban expansion bubble will burst. But burst it must is almost a truism, since continued draining off of our rural population into urban life must inescapably cease at some near future date because national survival demands it. When that cessation occurs, and perhaps a return movement to the land succeeds it, then the building boom will end. These and many related factors must be considered in planning an industry based on potential urban building in the immediate future.

Among the basic requirements for starting a soundly planned insulating board manufacturing plant in a rural community, the following are preminent:

1. The plant should be located where farmers will be able and willing to deliver 1,200 tons of baled straw annually.

2. This hauling radius should be no farther than 10 miles from the plant and preferably less than a mile.

3. The plant should be located in a small community where living costs are relatively low.

4. It should be near a stream or other source that will furnish approximately 50,000 gallons of water a day and also allow escape of a similar quantity without serious danger of stream pollution.

5. Because most building materials are now transported by highway pounds would be better.

CASE Poultry Fleck—Competition is keen in the laying pen. That is why Penn State extension poultry specialists believe in careful culling. They suggest taking out all birds that are not producing. Some can be given a chance to regain their egg-laying ability. Others should be sold.

Get in the Scrap—Extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College are joining in the plea to farmers to clean up their scrap piles for the making of new steel. Turn in rusted and worn-out implements, old machinery and parts, broken plow points, cultivators, shovels, sweeps, abandoned windmill towers, and old water tanks.

Control Ticks and Lice—Rotenone, in the form of a dip or spray or dust, will control ticks and lice on sheep. Stanley Geesell, Penn State extension entomologist, recommends a rotenone dip, or the same mixture can be used as a spray with a power sprayer for large flocks or a hand sprayer for small flocks. In cold weather use 2 per cent rotenone dust.

Drench the Sheep—A piperazine drench this fall when the sheep come off the pasture will help to control stomach worms and nodular worms, two of the worst internal parasites of sheep in this area of the country, says Thomas King, Penn State extension livestock specialist.

Store Crops Properly—Vegetable root crops require low temperature, just above freezing, and high humidity in storage, says Robert Fletcher, Penn State extension vegetable specialist. Cabbage like the same conditions, but onions keep best when fairly dry and cool.

Save the Leaves—Do not burn those fallen leaves. James Dutt, Penn State extension vegetable specialist, urges use of the leaves in a compost pile. Arranged in layers with lime and garden fertilizer and topsoil, and the whole well soaked with water, the leaves will rot and make much needed organic matter for the garden soil.

Feed Beef Cattle—When on full feed a steer should eat not less of the fattening ration than two percent of his weight, and more if possible, says James Christian, extension livestock specialist of the Pennsylvania State College. Thus, a 1,000-pound steer would eat at least 20 pounds of grain a day, and 23 to 24
